In Business Studies you should...

After each lesson

After each lesson review the key themes and terminology discussed that day and consider how it applies in the real world. Use the course specification outlined in the revision guide to ensure that you are able to understand and apply the key concepts.

Weekly

Keep up to date on key political developments such as: exchange rate, inflation, economic activity, the structure of the government.
Keep up to date with key topics such as:
● Cost of living
● Strikes
● Coronavirus

Personalise your news app tabs to include UK business. Useful websites include:

https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/business
https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/politics
https://news.sky.com/business
https://news.sky.com/politics

Fortnightly

You will be given exam style questions fortnightly to answer in your assessment books. Use the revision guide as well as the supporting material on Google Classroom to produce a sufficiently analytical and thorough response, making sure that you navigate your way through each AO that is needed based on the command word. AO2 (application/examples) is key so ensure that you can illustrate your points with relevant and current examples in the real business world. The more you know about the business world (use the links above) the easier it will be to do this.

Termly

Complete the mock papers and past papers placed on Google Classroom under timed conditions to test your knowledge without the support of the revision guides, develop your time management as well as your overall exam technique.

Throughout the year

Complete past paper questions with mark schemes are made available on WJEC.
https://www.wjec.co.uk/qualifications/business-as-a-level/#tab_pastpapers

Actively revise using the revision guide. Simply reading through the guide is ineffective. Active revision has been proved to significantly increase the retention of key information linked to the course.
Therefore, you should be using the revision guide to create:
- Mind maps
- Flash cards
- Mnemonics
- Revision clocks
- etc.

You can also access online revision material through useful websites such as:
https://tutor2u.net